The fact this guy was a member of the big beak brigade further proves they are lying about their population.

These freaks are everywhere

Think about it. That city Tyler Oliveira just made that film about. They're having on average, 10 kids each. Now picture all the religious ones doing that since they got here after WW2.

0.2% my ass! We already know they disguise themselves with our names and skin color

Their population stats are based on synagogue attendance, which is a completely useless stat because most of them are atheists/practice their religion... well, below the synagogues.

It also reflects a lie about our population. How much fewer White people would there be if they weren't included in the count?

I've thought that for a LONG time. The "You believe 2% of the population control everything" counter-argument is why they keep that low number, my friend actually uses that phrase.

It is impossible that there are only 25M in the world. As you said, they are EVERYWHERE.
