I'm sick of people not being able to comprehend that jews are NOT White.

So I have made this thread.

Not only is there indisputable evidence within this thread. But you will also see evidence of jews admitting it themselves that they are NOT White.

Jews are not white people, or why Jews support the Left (a response to Dennis Prager)

Jews will always believe Black Lives matter because Jews do not think of themselves as "White People." You have to walk down a street in Tel Aviv to see the multiplicity of Jewish skin colors. You have to live as a Jew in any time in history, in any country including the United States, to recognize we are not the White People — we were not the White People allowed into certain clubs, schools, neighborhoods for most of American history.

Jews will always agitate for and support causes of the Left, because we are commanded to be a beacon unto others and to see social activism and seeking justice, Tikkun Olam and Tzedaka, as part of the Jewish DNA. We are chosen to do so.

Are Jews White/European?

Short answer: No. Ashkenazi Jews are half Middle Eastern and half European. This is reflected in their phenotypes, which display a random 50/50 mix of Levantine and European facial features. Other Jews, such as Sephardim or Mizrahim, are predominantly Middle Eastern.

A 2017 study found that Ashkenazi Jews have approximately 50% Middle Eastern, 34% Southern European, and 16% Northern European ancestry. Similarly, a 2020 study found that Ashkenazi Jews have over 50% Middle Eastern and 41% European ancestry.

The most common Jewish Y-DNA haplogroups (male lineages) are concentrated in the Middle East and North Africa: J1, J2, E1b, and G.

Jews are a semi-nomadic people. Their history is one of being continually expelled and excluded from almost every country that they settled in. However, Jews have preserved their original Middle Eastern religion and language due to their insular and extremely ethnocratic culture. Over 60% of Jews today speak Hebrew.

Principal component analysis shows that Ashkenazi and Sephardi Jews genetically cluster between Europe and the Middle East.

Jewish news publications, such as Haaretz, Jerusalem Post, Forward, and The Times of Israel, have published numerous articles confirming that Jews are not White/European but "People of Color."

Jews are not White.

Jews (especially the biggest group, Ashkenazi Jews from places like Poland, Germany, Russia) are NOT just white Europeans genetically.

They are a mix, but with a clear “not fully European” part that makes them stand out.

Think of it like this:

- Imagine DNA as ingredients in a recipe.
- Regular white Europeans (like Germans, Poles, Brits) have mostly “European ingredients” — think Northern/Southern European mix.
- Ashkenazi Jews have about half European ingredients (mostly from Southern Europe like Italy/Greece, not super Northern) and about half from the ancient Middle East / Levant (the area around Israel, Lebanon, ancient Judea).

Studies show it's roughly 40-60% Middle Eastern / Levantine and 40-60% European (mostly Southern European). Some say closer to 60% Middle Eastern overall when you look at the full picture.

Jewish populations are genetically distinct from white European populations, though the degree of distinction varies by subgroup (e.g., Ashkenazi vs. Sephardic/Mizrahi).

“Jewish people” encompass several historical subgroups with shared but not identical genetic profiles:

- Ashkenazi Jews (the largest group, originating in Central/Eastern Europe) show a mixed ancestry: roughly 40-60% Middle Eastern/Levantine (shared with other Jewish groups and ancient Near Eastern populations) and 40-60% European (mostly Southern European like Italian/Greek, with some Eastern European).

Studies place them intermediate between Middle Eastern and European populations on principal component analysis (PCA) plots, but they form a distinct cluster separate from non-Jewish Northern/Western Europeans (e.g., Germans, Poles) and closer to Southern Europeans or other Jews.

Ashkenazi Jews experienced a major population bottleneck (founder event) around 600-800 years ago, making them genetically homogeneous and distinguishable from surrounding Europeans despite admixture.

Paternal lineages (Y-DNA) are predominantly Middle Eastern, while some maternal lineages (mtDNA) show more European influence (though recent analyses suggest more unified Near Eastern origins for both).

- Sephardic (Iberian-origin) and especially Mizrahi Jews (Middle Eastern/North African-origin) have higher proportions of Middle Eastern ancestry and less European admixture than Ashkenazim. They cluster closer to Levantine groups (e.g., Druze, Lebanese) and are more distant from Europeans.

Overall, genetic studies consistently show Jewish populations form their own clusters or subclusters, sharing more ancestry with each other (across Ashkenazi, Sephardic, Mizrahi) than with non-Jewish Europeans, even when accounting for admixture. They are not simply "white European" genetically; they retain a detectable Levantine component that sets them apart, despite varying European gene flow over centuries.
