We have a lot to do with Berlin of course that's where the book burnings took place along with all kinds of degenerate behavior coming from the jews.

Great idea to add generational division to all the others that are preventing people from uniting.

That aside, if you think ignorance and bigotry is confined to the old, there are some nasty surprises in store for you.

That woman is the stuff of nightmares.

These are the people who built entire academic departments devoted to attacking "white supremacy."

But as with all standards of human fairness & decency, it's different for them.

Pure white supremacy on display. They truly think they are superior and exceptional from the rest of the human population.

This generation? Why did I think of folks that use the term, "you people"?

Yeah once us old fucks die off a lot of the knowledge and experience that has been accrued over many years will disappear and the govt will be dealing with the clueless video drones.

I have become ashamed of asking for help, as if my pain has become a burden on everyone.
I try to appear strong, but the truth is that the despair inside me grows silently every day.
Are we still truly alive? And is there anyone left who can hear us before we completely break?
