Have you heard of Kiryas Joel, New York?

A village of 44,000 predominantly Hasidic Jews in up-state New York living off the teat of welfare programs and according to Jewish Talmudic law.

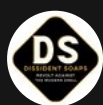

- 99% of this village's residents are Hasidic Jews
- they speak primarily Yiddish
- 40% live below the federal poverty line
- 40-60% receiving SNAP assistance
- reports estimate an average of 7 children per woman, some of the highest fertility rates in the developed world.
- median age is 15 years old
- almost all children attend private religious schools (yeshivas)
- per capita income is $13,000 per year, which is extremely low compared to NY averages
- they vote as a bloc
- one of the fastest growing cities in New York
- practically impossible to move into as a non-Jew

If Americans are upset about Somalis in Minneapolis NOT assimilating, and living according to "Sharia Law" while sucking the teat of welfare programs, then what's the excuse for this religious ethno-state feeding their massive families with your secular tax-dollars?

If these Hasidic Jews can live exclusively together in their own Jewish ethno-state, then why can't white people do it in Arkansas?

@spaghettbodyx69 made a thread 2 years about it, here's the main facts:

ford spehru Kiryas Joel, a Jewish village upstate of New York
With the highest poverty rate in the US, yet has near zero crime.

More than 2/3rds of its residents live below the poverty line
And 42% are on food stamps, the largest in the nation.
Yet it's cleaner and safer than any other area in poverty amongst blacks and whites.
Crime is virtually non-existent
There are no slums or homeless people.

In fact, new construction is constantly going up.
Brand new homes and multi-family units.
Refresh Supermarket and its modernist architecture.
Yesh Lev, the main Synagogue and its luxury interior.
Despite per capita income of $4,155, it looks the exact opposite of poverty.

They do this through gaming the system, extracting taxpayer dollars for their own benefit.
They take in more welfare than the poorest parts of the Bronx, but they aren't actually poor, just on paper.
For example, the town school district extracted $14M in federal pandemic aid.

An education system of 500 students spent nearly $94M in federal pandemic aid designed to curb learning loss and other effects of one of the worst disruptions to education in American history.
To put that amount in perspective, in the last round of funding alone, the Kiryas Joel Village Union Free School District received over $95,000 per student — nearly 40 times the national average and more than double what New York schools spend on special education students.
The state reveal the district is investing over $12 million in upgrades to facilities owned by organizations affiliated with the religious group's leadership.
Kiryas Joel refuses to explain where the $94M was spent. KJ officials have ignored a public records request filed under the state Freedom of Information Law.

$3M of the federal pandemic aid went was used to install "sensory" features — such as a wall with flowing water and bubbles lit up by LED lights — at the school.
They're experts at sucking money from the welfare system and get the government to build health clinics and bathing centers on the taxpayer's dime.
They never get civily married. On paper, every mother is unwell, to be eligible for welfare.
93% of Kiryas Joel is on Medicaid.

A whites-only, no-Jews community says it's found a legal loophole. A Jewish lawmaker in Pennsylvania wants to close it.

Ben Waxman introduced a bill to stop 'white nationalist housing developments.'

By Hannah Feuser
December 30, 2025

A Jewish Pennsylvania lawmaker has introduced a bill to clarify that housing developments like Return to the Land — a whites-only, no-Jews community in northern Arkansas — are illegal in his state.

In June, the Forward broke a story about Return to the Land's effort to revive segregated housing, with the group screening applicants for race and religion before allowing them to live on its 160-acre property. While several legal experts said that Return to the Land was violating the Fair Housing Act, Arkansas Attorney General Tim Griffin said in August that a preliminary review found that no laws had been broken.

Kiryas Joel Allowed To Secede From Upstate New York Town

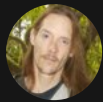

By JTA
November 8, 2025

(JTA) — The Hasidic community of Kiryas Joel reportedly will become the first Satmar Orthodox town in the United States after voters in Monroe, New York, overwhelmingly backed a referendum on secession.

On Tuesday, over 80 percent of Monroe voters backed the measure on Kiryas Joel, a village of over 20,000 Yiddish-speaking Jews associated with the Satmar Hasidic sect, to form the state's first new town in 35 years. The Town of Palm Tree — an English translation of the Satmar rebbe's surname, Teitelbaum — should come into existence in 2020, unless lawmakers speed up the process.

"Today is truly an historic day that will usher in a new era of peace and stability for all the residents of Monroe," Kiryas Joel village administrator Gedalye Sengul said in a statement. "We would like to thank all the voters in Monroe for their overwhelming support. They chose a better path forward."

We've been nice enough to tolerate them and even subsidize them, but when White people create our own communities Jewish groups are outraged.

They think that their ethnicity is chosen by God and should lead the world, but that we shouldn't care if our ethnicity even exists.

Typical-

The "Joel Teitelbaum scandal" refers not to one event, but to controversies surrounding Rabbi Joel Teitelbaum, founder of the Satmar Hasidic sect, and later, his community in Kiryas Joel, involving financial issues, allegations of corruption (like shakedowns, tax evasion), and later, dissent and probes into abuse within the village, leading to FBI raids and lawsuits over the theocratic structure, as well as unrelated libel suits against authors referencing a man with the same name, Albert Teitelbaum, involved in a fur heist.

Rabbi Joel Teitelbaum & Early Scandals (Mid-20th Century)

Shakedown Allegations: Teitelbaum was involved in testifying against figures like Frank Nathan, accused of demanding $500,000 from Teitelbaum to avoid tax issues, highlighting alleged corruption within government/influencers.

Personal Struggles: His flight from Hungary during the Holocaust involved bribery, and later, controversy over his decision to flee while others stayed,.

Divorce/Family: His complex marital life with his younger wife, Alta Feiga, and lack of children became a subject of discussion,.

Kiryas Joel & Later Controversies (Late 20th/Early 21st Century)

Incorporation & Conflict: The village of Kiryas Joel, founded by Teitelbaum, faced disputes with surrounding towns over zoning and governance, eventually incorporating as a self-governing village,.

Dissident Lawsuits: In the 2010s, dissidents accused Kiryas Joel's leadership

(following Teitelbaum's nephew, Aron) of running a theocracy and harassing them, leading to lawsuits seeking to dissolve the village,.

FBI Raids & Abuse Probes: In 2016, FBI raids targeted Kiryas Joel and Satmar institutions in Brooklyn, reportedly investigating fraud (E-rate, school lunches) and swirling around abuse allegations within the community,.

Stop comparing apples to oranges.

Yes welfare lifestyles of entire communities is a problem. But stealing billions in fraud on top is too much.

Taking assumptions made by this post, if the avg per capita income is $13,000 and the average family size is 9 (2 parents + 7 children) what is avg household income and how does that compare to NYS and Orange County, NY?

Is it honest to compare per capita income for families in Kiryas Joel with 7 children to NYC families with 0.75 children?
