UN warns 14,000 babies could die in Gaza in next 48 hours without aid

The UN's humanitarian chief, Tom Fletcher, has been speaking to the BBC's Radio 4's Today's programme about the dismal amount of aid Israel is letting into Gaza.

International pressure over a looming famine forced Benjamin Netanyahu to announce on Sunday night that he would ease the devastating 11-week aid blockade to prevent a "starvation crisis" in Gaza - but only to a minimum level.

Fletcher said five trucks of aid went into Gaza yesterday, but described this as a "drop in the ocean" and totally inadequate for the population's needs.

Aid hasn't yet reached anyone - 14,000 babies could die in 48 hours, says Fletcher

Fletcher now says five trucks of aid went into Gaza on Monday, but repeats that it's a "drop in the ocean".

He says, although the aid lorries have crossed into Gaza, they are just on the other side of the border, and haven't even reached the communities yet.

Fletcher says the supplies on the trucks are "baby food and nutrition".

He fears that 14,000 babies will die in the next 48 hours if the supplies don't reach them.

May all the babies in Gaza die within a minute, God willing, with their parents and grandmothers around them.
